Entertainer Sara Linton having a laugh at the reopening party for El Tucán

BACK IN BUSINESS!

Showgirls! Sparklers! Sass! The comeback soiree for El Tucán certainly hit all the right marks. The Brickell favorite has reopened as a restaurant and lounge concept where visitors start their evening with Instagram-worthy sushi and frothy cocktails and end it by dancing on the tables, and its debut evening proved that Miami loves a reinvention. For more details on the evening, just turn the page. —Michael Muzzquiz

THE OCCASION Many hearts were broken when El Tucán closed its doors a few months back, but its reopening as a restaurant and lounge concept proved Brickell's party spot is as hot as ever. THE CROWD Owners Mathieu and Alexandra Massa welcomed a slew of notables that included Adrienne Bon Haes, Marvin Ross Friedman, Ximena Caminos, Lauren Gnazzo, Ricardo Dunin, Tui Pranich... the list is long. "Is all of Miami here tonight?" asked realtor Ray de Leon. It certainly seemed that way. THE HIGHLIGHTS As dinner got underway, guests were treated to performances by singers and aerialists, and as the evening progressed and the DJ's dance tunes took over the room, revelers jumped on tables with sparklers in hand and danced late into the night.
